INTERNATIONAL TOURING DJ & RECORDING ARTIST

The Beat Drops also known as Adam Saber, knew growing up that music was going to be an integral part of his life. His love for music and dance provided several on air performances, such as an Old Navy commercial where he was casted to dance alongside super model Molly Simms. His love of music and dancing was later seen by a DJ at a private event who introduced Adam to the private event industry, encouraging him to become a party motivator. It was here that Adam realized he could express himself musically through more than just dancing.

In 2001, The Beat Drops stepped behind his first pair of Pioneer CDJ-500's and DJM-500 Mixer where he discovered his love for mixing music. Influenced by legendary east coast DJs Louie Devito, Crooklyn Clan and DJ AM, The Beat Drops learned from the best and would deliver a unique music delivery that would take it to the next level in the private event industry. Fast forward to 2017 when Adam Saber teamed up with New York DJ Stephen D'Amico to collaborate on events and unique mixes. While working together at events, Stephen and Adam pursued the idea of producing and performing on the big stage and from there, The Beat Drops were born. In 2019, The Beat Drops released their first Single, "Elevate," which has played in over 54 countries worldwide.

By the virtue of hard work and amazing collaborations, The Beat Drops have been trusted to perform for some the biggest A-List celebrities in the world for their own private events. Providing strict non-disclosure agreements, The Beat Drops clients do not have to worry about unnecessary press or the simple fact that they can have some normalcy without the public seeing everything they do.

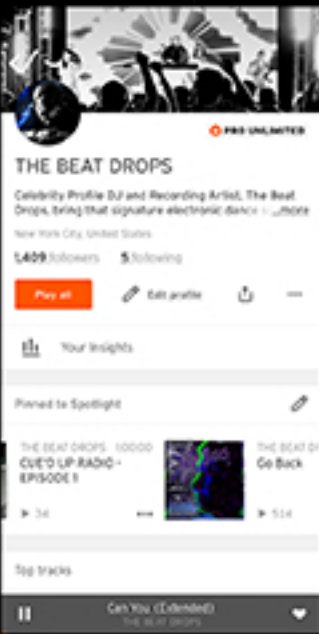

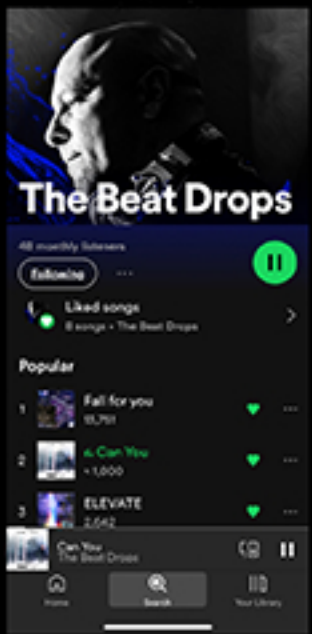

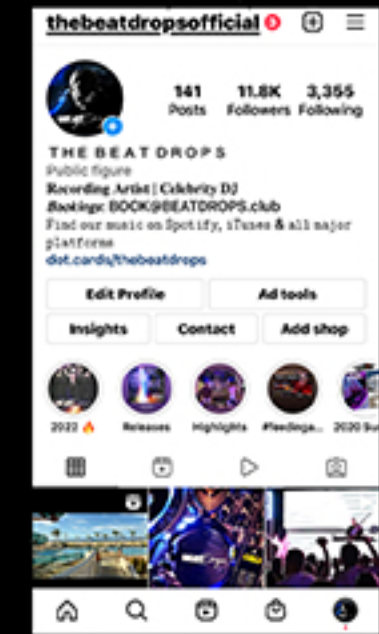

In 2019, The Beat Drops were hired to perform for the international brand Hard Rock Hotel in Riviera Maya for spring break, which led to their return to host the 2020 New Year's Eve concert for over 3000 people. In March of 2020, The Beat Drops were scheduled to tour the southern part of the USA when the unfortunate rise of the pandemic caused the industry to freeze. During this time, Adam of The Beat Drops produced and released, "Catch Me," "Fall For You," "Brighter," "Same Dream," and "Go Back." In an effort to help grow the name, The Beat Drops performed several live streams through social media and online streaming services. In June of 2020, The Beat Drops teamed up with one of the largest charities, Feeding America. A live stream performance on the tarmac of an airport was aired in an effort to raise money for those suffering from hunger during the pandemic. The Beat Drops collaborated again with Feeding America through its chapter in Monmouth and Ocean counties, FulFill NJ, in May of 2021 on the rooftop of The Wave venue on the Jersey Shore, which helped feed thousands of families. The Beat Drops in 2022, released three singles, Can Never Get Enough, All I want is love and Show me how which have aired worldwide on all major music platforms.

Starting 2023 on a vibe that's well deserved, The Beat Drops are back on tour full time in between being in the studio producing a brand new sound for future release this year. The Beat Drops look forward to capturing the crowds' attention and pull them into an immersive experience with performances that are enhanced by custom produced vocals, beats and remixes during the show on a track-by-track basis, putting fans at the heart of the gig.
